

The LECs operate an "essential facility", and should have to accommodate other ISP firms that wish to purchase access from them. This wholesale provisioning stimulates competition and benefits consumers. If the cable companies feel sharing there infrastructure is unfair, they should spin off the shared infrastructure into a separate company.